Mutual Cut In Tariffs Agreed

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The United States and the European common market have agreed on a mutual cut of 20 per cent in tariffs on industrial products and some reductions on agricultural products, a common market spokesman announced Tuesday night.

The arrangements were completed at a 20-minute meeting winding up four days of negotiations between Howard Petersen, President Kennedy's special assistant for trade matters, and Jean Rey, a member of the Common Market Executive Commission.

However, some polishing was reported still required.

Diplomats View
Kremlin Aura

LONDON (AP)—Diplomatic informants reported Tuesday that the U.S. and British ambassadors in Moscow have detected a peculiar atmosphere of political uncertainty lately.

But the informants added the envoys have found little evidence to suggest an imminent split or change of policy in Soviet leadership.

After talking to Secretary of State Dean Rusk in Washington Monday, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said, "Obviously something is going on in the Kremlin. The great lack of information indicates some major policy decision may be in the works."

Eight Killed
In Gas Blast

EDSON, Alta. (AP) — Eight workmen were killed Tuesday in an explosion of a natural gas pipeline in a remote area 35 miles northeast of Edson.

Four others were injured. Two were released after hospital treatment.

Blood supplies were sent to the Edson Hospital from Edmonton, 120 miles east of here.

Gas service was not affected in any communities.

The explosion occurred during testing of two sections of a feeder line.

Church Leader
Urges Strength

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP) — A Methodist leader criticized church leaders Tuesday for spending more time clearing church rolls of what he termed deadwood instead of looking for new members.

The Rev. Dr. Allen B. Rice of Philadelphia told the annual meeting of the Methodist Board of Missions that the church is failing to show strength "in a day of tremendous challenge, opportunity and population growth."

"Churches have died in the inner city with more people within their reach than at any time in their history," he asserted.

U. S. Troops In Huge Airlift

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A huge jet transport flew a full load of U.S. troops to Europe in little more than 10 hours Tuesday in the opening phase of "Operation Long Thrust II."

The operation to airlift 6,000 men from McChord, Wash. base to Rhein-Main base in Germany is widely viewed as a major test of how U.S. forces can be rushed overseas in an emergency.

It involves three reinforced battle groups of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division, stationed at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Solons To Act
On Postal Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House will tackle President Kennedy's request for an increase in postal rates as its first order of business.

That word came from Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., after a White House meeting Tuesday of Democratic congressional leaders with the President.

McCormack also said the House administration leaders have decided to seek passage of a federal aid for colleges bill before taking up separate legislation dealing with public school construction and teacher salaries.

Knight Out Of
Calif. Primary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, once a robust political warhorse who loved a rousing fight, withdrew Tuesday from California's 1962 GOP gubernatorial primary and a battle with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Citing reasons of health, Knight stepped out of what was shaping up as a rugged primary fight with Nixon, an old in-traparty foe.

Nixon said in a statement he hoped Knight would recover quickly from his illness so that "he could regain his participation in public affairs."

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL — Former home of Gen. Raoul Salan, onetime leader of the secret army organization (OAS) in Algiers, is smeared with the initials of the army and a drawing of French Premier Charles de Gaulle being clubbed on the head. French authorities prepared to clamp a state of siege on Algiers unless the mounting wave of terrorist violence is halted. The former Salan home is in Algiers suburb of Hydra.

Jury Finds Negligence But
Shuns Blame In Jedju Case

A MONROE County coroner's jury yesterday declined to place blame for the death of John Jedju, 38, Pocono Summit, on the man who has been charged with involuntary manslaughter in the slaying.

"We believe this death was caused by negligence unquestionably, but we are not prepared to identify the person," the jury told Daniel G. Warner, Monroe County coroner, after hearing testimony in the county courthouse.

George Freach, Jr., 33, also of Pocono Summit, and a cousin by marriage of the dead man, is free on $1,500 bail pending a hearing on the charge of involuntary manslaughter before Mrs. Emma B. Merwin, Mt. Pocono justice of the peace.

Shot In Woods

Mrs. Merwin said last night

no date has been set for the hearing.

Jedju was killed last Dec. 11 by a high powered rifle bullet while gathering wood near the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Freach.

Sgt. Harry A. Zimmerman, commanding officer of the Mt. Pocono State Police barracks, testified yesterday that he interviewed several men who were known to be hunting in the area on the day Jedju was shot, among them George Freach and Michael Freach, both of Pocono Summit.

Zimmerman said, "George Freach told him he had been hunting in the area with Michael Freach on the morning of Dec. 11, 1961, that he used a .32 caliber rifle and that he had not fired the gun on that day."

"Freach, Jr. stated that he had fired the gun on the Saturday preceding the shooting of Jedju but had missed a deer at that time," Zimmerman continued.

Bullet Found

Following an autopsy the bullet was found in the dead man's clothing and was taken to State Police Laboratories in Harrisburg by Zimmerman where identification of the bullet was made. The laboratory report showed that the bullet was a .32 special.

Sgt. Zimmerman returned to the home of George Freach and asked if he could have the rifle for further examination. Freach gave the gun to him of his own free will.

The rifle was sent to State Police Laboratory, along with three complete cartridges that Freach gave to Sgt. Zimmerman, for test firing and further examinations.

The laboratory report showed that the bullet found in the clothing of Jedju and the bullet fired in the laboratory were fired from the gun given to State Police by Freach.

In one of three interviews with Freach, conducted by Sgt. Zimmerman and Game Protector John Spencer, Freach said he had been hunting on the morning of the day Jedju was shot but that he came out of the woods around noon.

Freach told the investigating officers he quit hunting because his feet were wet and that his hunting partner, Michael Freach, had to take his wife to Stroudsburg for a doctor's appointment.

Michael Freach later testified that this was true and that he and his wife came to Stroudsburg for the appointment and following the appointment they went shopping in Stroudsburg.

Sgt. Zimmerman testified that the body of Jedju was discovered by Mrs. Elizabeth Freach. She told him, at an interview, that she came home from work at about 4:15 p.m. on that day. She is employed by Pocono Manor.

Probe Story Of 13-Year-Old Boy In Chicago School Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — The state's attorney's office took charge Tuesday of investigating a statement attributed to a 13-year-old boy saying he touched off Our Lady of the Angels school fire that killed 95 persons in 1958.

State's Atty. Daniel Ward indicated that if investigation points to the boy's guilt, prosecution will be difficult because of his age.

The boy, whose name was withheld, was a fifth grade pupil in the Chicago school at the time of the fire, Dec. 1, 1958. He since moved to suburban Cicero.

He has been questioned by Cicero police about several small fires in apartment building hallways in the suburb, but is not under arrest.

Ward and John E. Reid, who gave the lad a lie detector test, declined to say whether the boy had confessed.

Reid said he gave the test at the request of the boy's parents.

The Chicago Tribune said that Reid, who runs a lie detection service, obtained a confession when he interviewed the boy last Friday.

Cicero Police Capt. Chris T. Rooney said Cicero police became suspicious the boy might be responsible for the Chicago school fire when their investigation showed he was a former pupil in the Chicago parochial school.

The Tribune said in a copyright story that the boy related in his statement that he had tossed lighted matches into a cardboard waste barrel near a stairwell in the basement of the West Side school.

Both Sides Cite Provocation
In New Guinea Naval Clash

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Indonesians talked war and the Dutch warned of self-defense in bitter comment Tuesday on a naval clash Monday off the south shore of West New Guinea. Each accused the other of provocation.

Acting U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant's appeal to both Indonesia and the Netherlands for a peaceful solution was supported by the United States. In Washington, State Department press officer Lincoln White urged both nations to avoid fighting and "get on with constructive steps toward negotiation" of West New Guinea's future.

But strong words were voiced in both Jakarta and The Hague. The Dutch gunfire which the Dutch announced sank one Soviet-built Indonesian torpedo boat and routed its flotilla companions "constitutes a direct challenge and war provocation," an Indonesian army spokesman declared in Jakarta.

"Indonesia will meet the challenge," he said.

Maj. Gen. Achmad Jani, chief of an operational staff command that President Sukarno has set up to enforce his claim to West New Guinea, declared "the Indonesian government is taking steps immediately to counter the Dutch attack."

Premier Jan De Quay laid down the Dutch line in a reply to Thant's appeal. He said the Netherlands is still willing to negotiate the issue without setting prior conditions, but a repetition of Indonesia's torpedo boat action would be met again with force.

De Quay referred to the thwarted Indonesian operation not as an invasion attempt, but as an effort to land armed infiltrators.

Wife Had Called

She added that she had received a telephone call from Mrs. Jedju, her daughter, asking if she had seen John as he was to pick her up at work. Mrs. Jedju is employed as a secretary in Pocono Mountain Joint High School, Swiftwater.

It was after this telephone call that Mrs. Freach went outside the house to call Jedju. He did not answer and she noticed tracks in the snow leading back through the woods. She followed the tracks to the spot where the body was found.

In her testimony to Sgt. Zimmerman she said the body lay on its back with no blood visible. At first she thought he had suffered a heart attack.

Surprise Announcement:
U.S., Britain Ready To Quit Test Ban Talks

By DORIAN FALK
GENEVA (AP)—In an abrupt move that seemed to catch the Soviet delegate by surprise, the United States and Britain announced Tuesday they are ready to break off three-power nuclear test ban talks.

They said that in line with Soviet demands, the test ban issue should be referred to the general disarmament negotiations due to open in Geneva in March.

As the nuclear talks reopened after a year-end recess, the Soviet delegate, Semyon K. Tsarapkin, apparently had expected some protracted negotiations.

Conference sources said Tsarapkin told the U.S. delegate, Charles C. Stelle, and Britain's Sir Michael Wright that he would submit their proposal to Moscow.

Tsarapkin later told newsmen he was "not pleased but puzzled" with the Western move. He did not elaborate.

Western diplomats expected the Soviet Union to agree that the test ban issue be negotiated within the wider issue of disarmament.

"After all it is their own proposal," one diplomatic source added.

The Soviet government proposed merger of the test ban and disarmament issues last summer after the two Western powers submitted a complete draft of a test ban treaty. This draft included far-reaching Western concessions on the international control machinery the West feels is necessary to ensure observance of an agreement to ban nuclear weapons tests.

The Soviet government then withdrew all previous agreements worked out in more than two years of negotiations in Geneva. It said in view of the worsening political situation, any type of international controls would be tantamount to Western espionage on Soviet soil.

At the outset of the resumed negotiations, the United States and Britain formally rejected the Soviet demand for an uncontrolled moratorium on nuclear weapons tests, proposed two months ago.

Since the Soviets advanced the idea after breaking a previous voluntary moratorium with a series of spectacular nuclear tests last fall, the Western delegates said their governments could not accept another moratorium.

Then Stelle and Wright told Tsarapkin that in view of the impasse, the only alternative was to break off the talks and refer the question to the 18-nation disarmament conference.

The next meeting of the three powers then was set for Friday in the expectation Moscow would be ready to reply by then, but Tsarapkin cautioned it might take longer, informants said.

Lawrence Calls Legislature For Reapportionment Session Monday

Army High Command To

Says Plans
Seem 'Far
From Ideal'

HARRISBURG (AP)—A call for a special session of the legislature was issued Tuesday by Gov. Lawrence to consider a congressional reapportionment plan which he labeled as far from ideal.

The special session will run five days starting next Monday at noon. It takes five days to move a bill through the legislature.

A special session is necessary because the regular 1962 meeting of the General Assembly is limited to fiscal matters.

"Both the Republican and Democratic leadership in the House and in the Senate have indicated that they are ready to reach a final agreement on this matter," Lawrence said.

"Far From Ideal"

"I have seen the plans," he added. "They are far from ideal. While the districts should average out at 419,000 persons, many of the districts are far in excess of this number—and some are much smaller."

However, it is important that some kind of reapportionment plan is agreed upon so that we can avoid the ridiculous situation of electing 27 congressmen at large which would defeat the principle of representative government."

Because of national population shifts, Pennsylvania must reduce its congressional representation from 30 to 27 members.

Agreement Reached

Agreement on a compromise plan was reached early Monday, breaking a year-long stalemate on the thorny issue.

It calls for elimination of a Democratic seat in Philadelphia and a Republican district in western Pennsylvania. The third seat will be lopped off by consolidation of Democrat and Republican seats in the Schuylkill-Berks-Northumberland county region.

Approval of the plan next week would head off an election crisis. Failure to realize the districts by Feb. 20 would have resulted in all 27 congressmen being elected on a statewide basis in November, rather than by districts.

The Senate was on hand to receive Lawrence's call for the special session. After a brief meeting, it adjourned until 11 a. m. next Monday.

The House had adjourned after Monday's session until Monday.

Claim 18 Missionaries Slain
By Rebel Troops In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The massacre of 18 Roman Catholic missionaries by Congolese soldiers who first forced them to submit to indignities was reported by church authorities Tuesday. Another priest was reported missing.

The killings were reported in an eastern area of the Congo where unruly soldiers in the past have been reported under the influence of pro-Communist Antoine Gizenga, whose rebellion against the central government now is crumbling.

In fact, as the reports circulated, Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula announced that Gizenga had been stripped of his post as deputy premier in the central government for leading the insurrection.

A virtual prisoner of government troops in his stronghold of Stanleyville, Gizenga may be replaced by a friend of his arch foe, President Moise Tshombe of Katanga, Adoula said.

Eight Are Reported Dead As
New Violence Sweeps D. R.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Dominican air force tank troops fired into hundreds of rioters in the heart of the capital Tuesday. At least eight persons were reported killed.

The rioters' main target appeared to be President Joaquin

Balaguer, an old Trujillo adherent who has promised to resign. A government spokesman blamed Communist agitators for the rioting.

The nation's major opposition group, the National Civic Union, announced a hospital check showed at least eight dead and many wounded.

It was the worst outburst of violence since remnants of the Trujillo dynasty were forced out of the country last November.

The two-week-old seven-man State Council immediately ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

Chiefs of the army, navy and air force, led by the armed forces chief, Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, went into emergency conference with Balaguer.

Equipment
Fault Delays
Man-In-Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A faulty valve in a unit that will cool astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.'s space suit forced Tuesday a one-day postponement, until Jan. 24, of the effort to orbit him around the earth.

Word of the postponement came from reliable sources. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has never announced a specific date for the launching and therefore had no comment on the reported delay.

The source said the trouble involves a valve in a freon gas cooling unit in the Mercury space capsule. The unit feeds coolant into the astronaut's pressurized space suit while he is in the spacecraft atop the Atlas booster during the prelaunch countdown.

The valve must be replaced before extensive checkout of the Atlas and capsule can proceed.

It was the third postponement of the launching. The space agency originally set a Dec. 20 date but the firing was called off until Jan. 16 to allow more preparation time.

The shooting broke out as the council headed for a showdown on opposition demands that Balaguer keep his promise to resign.

Navy and army troops with automatic rifles moved in to reinforce police. Two hours later the streets were deserted except for the armed patrols.

After the shooting, thousands of Dominicans milled in the rainy streets. Mobs set fire to a downtown theater.

Rampaging crowds, mostly youths, surged down the city's main street, overturning trash cans and hurrying stones at windows.

The shooting occurred at Independence Park where an angry crowd had gathered to protest the presence of air force tanks.

Lt. Col. Manuel Antonio Cuervo Gomez, commanding the tank units, said the mob tried to overwhelm the tanks and set them afire.

Exchange Student Spends Day At South Wayne High

NEWFOUNDLAND — Peter Porter, president of the Wayne County Association of Student Councils, and a student at Hawley High School, and Henrik Kraayenhagen, an exchange student from Holland attending Hawley High School under the sponsorship of the Hawley Rotary Club, spent a day at Southern Wayne Joint School in the county exchange student program. Betty Lee, secretary of the local student council, which sponsored the exchange, reported on the event for the school.

Interests, ideas and activities of American students interested the youth from Holland, and the local students were also interested in a comparison of their activities with those of another country.

Henrik was introduced to the senior Problems of Democracy class and, after revealing that he had completed five years of French, was persuaded to attend the French II class. He explained to the latter class that American schools are much easier than Holland's schools, since students here have fewer subjects and less homework. He noted that he had attended kindergarten for two years; grade school for six; and then went on to graduate from a secondary commercial school. Upon returning to Holland this summer, he will begin a two-year course at an International Trade School there.

His high school studies included physics, chemistry, algebra, economics, law, typing, world history, and bookkeeping. He spoke fluent Dutch, English, German and French.

Henrik told the students that baseball and volleyball are popular in Holland, but the latter is played interscholastically as we do basketball in our conference. Sailing is also one of his favorite sports, he said.

Social customs in both countries are largely the same, he reported, but in Holland, married women rarely work outside the home. He praised the value of the foreign exchange student program, noting that it brings together youth of different lands for an understanding of the other's way of life.

In the same exchange student program Yvonne Rochford and Mary Ann Aleckna visited the Waymart High School as representatives of SWJS.

Monroe Patients In State Mental Hospitals Declines

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — The number of Monroe County residents who are patients in state mental hospitals has been fluctuating. This was indicated yesterday in a check by the Record Harrisburg Bureau with the State Department of Public Welfare on the latest reports available of mental hospital populations on a county-by-county basis.

A just completed report for the 1960-61 fiscal year for example, shows a total of 119 Monroe county residents as patients at state mental institutions — a decline of six from last year, up 17 over ten years ago.

Records of the department show this pattern over the ten-year span insofar as Monroe County is concerned: fiscal year ended May 31, 1951—102; 1952—103; 1953—100; 1954—99; 1955—107; 1956—103; 1957—92; 1958—112; 1959—117; 1960—125.

Of the 17 state mental hospitals throughout the state, Monroe County residents were listed as patients in six different state hospitals during the past fiscal year as follows:

Allentown State Hospital, 93; Danville State Hospital, 18; Embsville State Hospital, one; Farview State Hospital, three; Hollidaysburg State Hospital, three; and Norristown State Hospital, one.

Department figures also show that as of May 31 a total of 67 Monroe County residents were on leave of absence from state mental hospitals.

Red Cross Volunteers Aid In Record Blood Drive

THE NAMES of volunteers of the Red Cross Bloodmobile which helped in setting a new record for blood donations at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot was released yesterday.

The list includes canteen, staff aides, nurses aides, and other volunteers who made the two-day drive a huge success. The lists of area physicians and registered nurses who participated in the drive was published Thursday, Jan. 11.

On Jan. 9, the first day of the blood drive to the Regional Blood Center, 278 pints were collected. However, civilians and soldiers at the Depot broke all records on Jan. 10 when 422 pints were collected for a grand total of 700 pints. This was 135 more than the previous record set in July 1961. Of 753 volunteers wishing to give blood, only 53 were deferred for health reasons.

Local Art Show Opens Today

By Madalyn Maloney

JUDGES of the 25th annual Art Show which officially opens today in the art department of A. B. Wyckoff, yesterday advanced the opinion that "art should be more than something created to fill space. It should project something of the artist's own personality, and should convey some type of message—perhaps a message of the times in which we live."

In accordance with this thought, they selected an oil of flowers by Maricia Clapp as winner of first prize, Professional Class, and another oil, exceptionally contemporary in feeling, called "The Boatman" by Paul Hamel, as winner of first prize Amateur. Hamel is a member of the East Stroudsburg State College faculty; Mrs. Clapp is founder of Pocono Art Center and a distinguished American sculptress.

The panel of judges was comprised of the following: Liba Bayrak who came to this country two years ago from her native Czechoslovakia and now resides in Mountain Lakes, N. J., with two daughters, 11 and nine years of age, and her husband, who is teacher of art and art history at Fairleigh-Dickinson College.

She studied in Paris, but finds that her technique has undergone great changes since coming to this country and has now "gone completely abstract." Mrs. Bayrak feels that abstract is the perfect expression of "all the freedom of thought and lack of prejudice" that she finds here in this country.

Henry Niese, who studied at Cooper Union and Columbia University, has won recognition as one of our country's leading young artists. He is now preparing a show for the Fall of 1962 in New York, and was represented last year in The Young Americans exhibit at the Whitney Museum.

David DeLong, of Great Meadows, who will be given a one-man show in February at the Selected Artists Gallery, 72nd St. and Madison Ave., is a graduate of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. He has an extensive background as a teacher and, like Niese, has had his work widely reproduced.

For want of a better term, all three refer to themselves as "figurative expressionists," but display a most unusual lack of bias in judging work of all styles. "We refrained from reading signatures," they explained, "and made our selections purely on the basis of technique and what we considered the importance of each entry."

The result was that recognizable subjects, pleasing to lovers of "pretty pictures," primitive, and the most modern of abstracts all received recognition.

Professional Winners

Niese, explaining the selection of Mrs. Clapp's floral as first prize winner, professional, commended the vitality of its presentation, saying that one has the feeling it was "painted by a real, vital person, who has something to say," rather than by an individual unduly concerned with the mere placement of coloration of attractive objects.

The background is done in a swirling movement which sometimes threatens to obscure the more conservative treatment of the flowers themselves. "This painting shows a feeling for the times in which we live," he said. "It is an oftentimes irrational treatment, with confusion obscuring clarity—yet the clarity finally dominates and shines through. Most interesting."

Second prize professional went to Roy Danford Parker, 80-year old primitive painter of Middletown, N. Y., whose "Journey's End" pictures a tidy farmhouse and barn on a neat, snow-covered landscape, marked here and there with precisely set trees against a cleanly delineated range of mountains.

"Typically primitive," was the judge's decision, "and quite excellent."

Third prize professional was awarded Deane Uptegrove's water color, "Winter's End." Mr. Uptegrove, of Hope, N. J., is a superb water colorist who combines skill of technique with a warm-hearted appreciation of his subject, making that is most charming.

"He is completely self-assured but unpretentious in his approach," the judges decided.

Sterling Strauser's "Passing Fair," in which the judges saw a distinctly "Duffy quality," Frank Richardson Murray's pastel portrait, "Miss Clausen" and Agnes Dyer's "The Ridge," an abstract which the judges found interesting for its architectural quality, its use of diagonals, and its breaking-away from the use of solid masses, suggesting something of the fragmented world in which we live," were awarded Honorable Mention ribbons.

Amateur Winners

Hamel's painting of "The Boatman," first prize amateur, caught the critics' eyes because of the intensity of its mood, achieved by an interlacing of branches over an expanse of dark green water, and because of the luminosity with which light breaks through the background. "This too is a painting with a message about our world of today," was the critical decision.

Second prize amateur went to Thomas McGurk, of Stroud Union High School, for a still life in oil, showing a shelf upon which artist supplies are neatly arranged against a rough plank background.

Third prize went to Carla Holmgren for Composition Number 1, because of "her formal organization of non-geometric forms in which she has interestingly solved the problem of filling space with a certain airiness and defiance of gravity."

Mary Weingartner's "Mountain Lake, in which the personality of the artist is as dominant as the landscape she captures; Elizabeth McElowney's "Spring Arrives in the Old Birch Thicket," a painting of "unpretentious charm in which mood and movement are portrayed," and Elizabeth Engelhart's primitive water color, "Evenfall in Winter," were accorded honorable mentions.

There are 150 entries in this year's show which remains on view through Saturday of next week.

Other participating artists are: Dorothy V. Philipp, Dorothy V. Willis, Mary Schutt, J. Carroll Tobias, Clarence I. Dreisbach, Louise Cooke, Esther H. Carson, J. CAS Receives Annual Report

THE PROBLEM of long-term care for children outside of their own homes was among the human factors implicit in the annual statistical report, of the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County presented at the board of directors meeting yesterday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The ideal solution is to be able to return those children to their own homes when those homes become suitable to receive them, or to place them in permanent adoptive homes, Charles Jones, executive secretary, explained.

That has been possible in some cases but analyzing the length of time which children remain in care reveals that the largest single number has been in care seven years or longer, a matter of concern to the community and to the agency, he said.

Of the 54 children in foster homes, 7 have been in care less than six months; 4 from six months to a year; 11 over a year; 7 from two to five years; 1 from five to seven years and 24 seven years or over.

100 In Care

There were 100 children in care at the beginning of 1961; 81 new children initiated service; and 60 cases were terminated.

Liquor License Suspended

THE liquor license of A. Harry Feedman, trading as Harry's Farm, River Road, Pahaquarry Township, has been suspended by the New Jersey Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control for 60 days.

Freedman was charged with allowing sale of alcoholic beverages to three minors and permitting sale of alcoholic beverages to five persons who were actually or apparently intoxicated.

The charges were made following a state police investigation of an accident last Sept. 3 which took the lives of four young men from the Philadelphia area. A fifth youth was injured in the crash.

Freedman originally pleaded guilty to the charges, but later at a hearing changed his plea to no defense, the ABC said. The ABC further noted that the licensed business is now closed.

Mrs. Davis Honored For Service

MRS. JEANNETTE Davis, wife of Monroe County Judge, Fred W. Davis, was honored last night at a dinner in the Penn-Stroud Hotel by the Monroe County Board of Assistance. Mrs. Davis retired from the board after completing nine years of service.

In addition to the guest of honor those present were Mrs. Evan Reese, Mrs. Ida Kunkle, Mrs. Roger Dunning, Dr. William Kopenhaver, Thomas Joyce, all board members, and Miss Virginia Katsaromitsos, executive director.

Therefore, the effective dates of the suspension will be announced later.

A deed filed in the Warren County Courthouse, Belvidere, last month indicates that the premises have been sold by Freedman to his brother, David Freedman. Both men are from New Brunswick.

Eye On The Future

Pennsylvanians in the Delaware Valley, particularly in Monroe and Pike Counties, would do well to keep an alert eye on a recommendation made to the legislature yesterday by Governor David L. Lawrence. It concerns a long-range program which could have a vast effect on this area.

The recommendation, submitted in a message to both the House and Senate, is for a proposed amendment to the State Constitution that would allow the state to finance a $70 million park expansion and conservation program. The Governor asked the legislature to consider the recommendation favorably.

Specific goals outlined by the Governor include the establishment of three giant federal parks upon three multiple-purpose reservoirs. The $70 million would be used for land acquisition, while capital improvements would be provided in subsequent state budgets. It is estimated that up to 30 per cent matching federal funds would be available.

According to the Governor's statement, the proposal, which has a target date of 1970, "will lay the foundation for a new year-round recreation industry in our mountain countries, making them a potential new American vacationland easily accessible by the interstate highway network."

It is anticipated that work on the Tocks Island dam near Bushkill will be started in the next year or so. The resulting reservoir will form the nucleus of one of the greatest recreation areas in the east. It is not too early for Pennsylvania to plan proper development of this potential, and it is up to every resident of the Delaware Valley to do his bit in supporting it.

A constitutional amendment requires approval by two consecutive legislative sessions and a voters' referendum. If the present legislature acts on the proposed amendment, along with the 1963 legislature, the plan could be put before the voters in the 1963 municipal election.

No Help For Self-Help

For years Government officials have been wringing their hands over the "plight" of the railroads. Now, when two railroads plan to help themselves by merging, Government officials wring their hands over the proposed remedy.

Specifically, the Justice Department is threatening to oppose the merger plans of the Pennsylvania and the New York Central on the ground that it might tend to be monopolistic. This attitude seems all the more peculiar in view of the fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission, despite its long and myopic record of opposition to railroad progress, is sympathetic toward this merger.

The Federal antitrusters find a chorus of support among the rail unions. One union calls the merger proposal "catastrophic." Another is already threatening a strike. Like the Justice Department, the unions profess to be concerned about excessive consolidation. With so much statesmanship of such high order filling the air, perhaps it's well to take a look at this monopoly argument. It is true that the Pennsylvania-Central combine would be big. But monopolistic?

How can a company be monopolistic when it faces the competition of many other railroads? When it faces the further competition of airlines, buses, autos, trucks and pipelines? The whole point of the merger is to enable the companies to get into a healthy competitive situation and so try to save themselves from extinction.

Maybe that hope is only optimistic, or maybe there is some other reason why the merger might not be a good idea. But who in the Government or the unions has come up with a more practicable thought? Or perhaps some of these vociferous critics of self-help just want the railroads to continue withering, until the only "solution" will seem to be the desperation of nationalization.

Things Do Happen!

The other night, I went to the Metropolitan Opera House to hear the Walküre, which, if you do not know, Richard Wagner took out of the Volungs and Niblungs and wrote a series of opera about.

It takes enormous energy to sing any of the music in the Ring, first because Wagner had no mercy for singers, expecting them to blow themselves to bits and secondly because it is undoubtedly the most glorious music ever written if you can understand what it is all about.

Richard Wagner's concept of the opera was that it united all the arts into a single idea. However, the night I went, the star lost her voice and they substituted another, poor dear, who had not enough wind to carry Wagner across the mountain which he expects a soprano to do. Of course, Flagstad had no problems because nature built her that way and all went well until Walter Winchell called Flagstad a Nazi.

So the night I went to hear the Walküre, they had a real German Wotan, with all the muscles and stomach that is required for such a character but a bug got him and his voice was not what it should have been — an accident that shows what can happen to an actor who plays a god. So they got another Wotan, gods being available in these days as in those and the curtain went up and everyone was happy.

Wotan was doing pretty well until he — the second one — lost his voice or forgot his part; I do not know what happened for I, not being a master of these things, listen only to the orchestra that carries into dreams.

When Wotan sang, in German, of course:

"Thy bed shall be lit by torches more brilliant Than ever for bridal have burned! Fiery gleams shall girdle the fell, With terrible scorchings scaring the timid, Who, cowed, may cross not Brunnhilda's couch For one alone freeth the bride;

So the night I went to hear the Walküre, they had a real German Wotan, with all the muscles and stomach that is required for such a character but whole it was a decent audience that took what came good-naturedly, figuring that these German gods were playful folk who got all mixed up with maids and beer and sometimes even with such a one as Hitler.

My eyes were cast on a bass fiddle player, a girl, who I was told was part of the augmented orchestra. I recalled what Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes said to Justice Brandeis when both were aged and walking to the Supreme Court to prove their eternal youth. "Oh! Would that I were eighty again!"

The curtain rose again and the first Wotan courageously finished the show, for come what may, the show must go on and Wagner was justified when the original Wotan sang:

"He who my spear in spirit feareth, Ne'er springs through their fiery bar!" Brunhilda lies as though dead and Wotan disappears through the fire.

Slow curtain. All the time I wondered when the big chandelier would fall from the ceiling and put an end to the whole business. Next time I shall take Bob Considine and Toots Shor or some other pundit to listen to Wagner's leitmotif. For them only the first row would do.

But this must be said: Erich Leinsdorf, the maestro who ran the whole show, leading the orchestra, bringing in the singers, directing what the stage hands should do about the curtain, was as cool as a captain on a sinking ship.

This Leinsdorf, at 25 or some such age, was Toscanini's assistant conductor which means that he was apprentice to the greatest baton that ever was whirled. I shall, God willing, be watching him for years to come at Tanglewood where he is to succeed the lovely Munch and the dramatic Koussevitzky.

Tanglewood, up in the Berkshires, is where music can be done at its best. There Munch introduced Berlioz to me in a richness I had never expected to experience and Leinsdorf will do something like that. For a man who could go through such a Wednesday at the Metropolitan can do anything. And these days at the Met it is standing room only.

Thoughts On School Reorganization

Harrisburg — Will "local" opposition to the highly controversial "school reorganization act" enacted by the 1961 Legislature doom it to virtual extinction next year?

The question would seem to be a pertinent one—in light of a seemingly growing number of "formal" expressions of opposition on the part of county school boards; expressions flatly critical of the act that requires reorganization of local school districts into 4000-pupil minimums.

(The question can't be brought up in the current 1962 session which is limited to consideration only of fiscal matters, but unquestionably it will be on the agenda when the 1963 session convenes.)

The action taken by some of the county school boards—not individual school district boards within a county but the county school board representative of all its local boards—is perhaps indicative of the way the wind is blowing for 1963.

From newspapers throughout the state crossing our desk we've noted some of these actions in recent weeks—actions which drew attention locally only but which when lumped together undeniably present a somewhat ominous picture of resentment and opposition to the will of people themselves.

Here are a few illustrations: From the Washington Reporter:

"Members of the Washington County School Directors Association want the state's new compulsory school reorganization law repealed and a provision for local option in any similar reorganization plan."

From the Phoenixville Daily Republican: "A resolution was adopted by some 365 school directors and administrators of Montgomery County to seek repeal of the State Legislature's School Reorganization Act 561."

From the Jeannette News-Dispatch: "The majority of school directors in Westmoreland County favor amending Pennsylvania Act 561, the controversial act which mandates how jointures in the state must be formed, rather than repealing it."

From the Berwick Enterprise: "Columbia County School Board, which has voiced opposition to the state school district reorganization plan (Act 561), last evening voted to propose an alternate plan."

From the Washington Observer: "The Greene County School Board has gone on record as opposed to Pennsylvania's controversial new school district reorganization law."

Illustrative of a strictly individual school district's feeling (completely independent of what a county school board may do) is this lead paragraph in a news story in the Sharon Herald (Mercer County):

"The Mercer Joint Consolidated School Board recorded a resolution Wednesday night favoring repeal of the new state school reorganizing law."

As we've already noted, these are simply a few black and white reports merely illustrative of how some of the "local" school people feel—that is, a feeling amazingly expressed in out-of-town formal protest.

Seemingly significant too is the fact that these generally unknown "local uprisings" are in addition to the generally known protest and repeal actions taken by such statewide organizations as the State School Directors' Association, the State Farmers, the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, and the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors.

On the other hand, there are those school districts highly in favor of the school reorganization act so heavily hammered thought the 1961 Legislature by the Lawrence Administration as "the key" to the administration's "new horizon" educational program.

The point at the moment however isn't pro or con, or whether the act should or should not be modified, but rather merely a recording of a seemingly growing "formal" opposition (it's easier to acquiesce; opposition usually is wrath-producing) to a supposedly top-flight program.

The Allen-Scott Report

Robert Kennedy Gets Moscow Visit Feeler

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — Attorney General Robert Kennedy has been invited to visit Russia during his around - the - world trip next month.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev extended the informal invitation to the President's brother through diplomatic channels.

He gave a note to Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson in Moscow "suggesting" that the President ask his brother to include Moscow on his itinerary.

That's the private report President Kennedy has given to Democratic congressional leaders.

He has informed the legislators that no decision has been made on whether his brother will accept the invitation. "Bobby's acceptance of the invitation will depend on the state of U.S.-Soviet relations during the next three or four weeks," reported the President. "If there are signs of improvement, I wouldn't be surprised to see him make the visit."

If young Kennedy makes the trip, he is expected to visit Russia late in February. On February 7, the Attorney General leaves for Japan, his first stop on the around-the-world trip.

According to State Department sources, Ambassador Charles ("Chip") Bohlen, Secretary of State Rusk's adviser on Soviet Affairs, also played a major role in arranging for the invitation.

Still Undecided—The big question mark hanging over President Kennedy's controversial request for new authority to reduce tariffs is Senator Harry S. Byrd, D. Va., veteran chairman of the Finance Committee that will write the legislation in the Senate.

Unlike the private commitment that Representative Wilbur Mills, D. Ark., chairman of the tariff-writing House Ways and Means Committee, has given the White House, Senator Byrd is still unconvinced that Congress should turn these sweeping powers over to the President.

"I'm still very much undecided on your tariff proposal," Senator Byrd frankly told the President during a private White House legislative conference. "I'm not convinced that it is wise for Congress to give up so much authority in this vital area."

"You have been a champion of the Reciprocal Trade program in the past. There is no more important issue before Congress," challenged the President. "The tariff cutting authority I am requesting is needed to help this country take full advantage of the trade opportunities that will be available if we cooperate with the European Common Market."

"My first major speech in Congress was in support of the Reciprocal Trade program in 1934, and I have supported the program ever since," declared Byrd. "But frankly, I am worried that the standard of living in this country will be substantially reduced if we lower tariffs much further and permit a flood of foreign products made by cheaper labor."

"I will never permit that to happen," assured the President. "I'm committed to a rising standard of living."

After hearing this, Senator Byrd made a significant pledge, saying: "I am going to try to cooperate with you all I can, Mr. President. I assure you that there will be swift action on your proposal once the House finishes with the legislation, regardless of how I vote."

"What about your own position?" inquired the President. "I'm undecided," answered Byrd. "I'm going to pray over it."

Getting The Word—On the President's major tax recommendations, Senator Byrd was even cooler than on the Administration's tariff proposal. The veteran legislator told the President that he was flatly opposed to Congress giving up its authority to set tax rates, saying: "This is one power that I doubt Congress will ever give any President."

Also, Senator Byrd said, "I'm inclined to oppose your tax credit plan for business, but you may yet win me over on that one." He said he favored the proposal to close loopholes.

On the controversial plan to put medical-care for the aged under the social security system, Senator Byrd gave an emphatic "No!" "I plan to oppose your medical-care plan because it is not tied to need," reported Senator Byrd. "I don't want any young person paying for my medical bills."

Significantly, Senator Byrd ended the conversation, saying: "Mr. President, I'm not going to embarrass you on any part of your program, although there will be a number of bills that I can't personally support. I will see that you get a vote on every major bill that comes before my committee."

Inside You And Yours

Dear Doctor...

By Burton H. Fern, M.D.
Dear Doctor: Is baking soda good for a cold?
Mrs. A. H. (Calif.)

Dear Mrs. H.: It's much better for baking! With aspirin, fluids and rest, most colds disappear in a week. Add baking soda and they clear in seven days!

Dear Doctor: What's the difference between thyroid and iodine tablets?
Mrs. H. M. (Conn.)

Dear Mrs. M.: Thyroid tablets contain thyroid hormone; iodine pills contain only iodine—one ingredient in the hormone. Thyroid pills can replace missing hormone, but iodine works only when iodine deficiency slows down thyroid activity. And when thyroid machinery races out of control, iodine can tangle the gears and slow it down.

Why The Black-out?
Dear Doctor: Why should I 'black out' twice every two weeks? It may happen any time.
Mrs. H. S. (Ohio)

Dear Mrs. S.: Possibly. When circulation can't deliver all the sugar and oxygen that brain cells need, you feel faint. A flickle blood pressure, topped off with change of life or early pregnancy, can start you fainting. The fluctuating pressure may swing too low to deliver blood up to your head.

Many other conditions can make you faint, too—even an overnight corset! Your doctor or dressmaker can tell!

Affected By Weather
Dear Doctor: Why should my kidney trouble make me swell more on hot, humid days?

Mrs. A. R. (Ga.)
Dear Mrs. R.: Because extra blood flows through the skin to help give off body heat. You bloat out as this extra fluid bloats your swollen skin. If the weather weren't so humid, perspiration would evaporate and you could sweat out most of your problem!

Stomach Trouble?
Dear Doctor: Every morning I wake up queasy and jumpy and can't eat for two hours. Is this pyloric (stomach) spasm?
Mrs. M. T. (Fla.)

Dear Mrs. T.: Pyloric spasm would make you upchuck after each meal. Perhaps nervous tension makes your heart jump and stomach wriggle until you feel queasy.

Or maybe your stomach creeps up into the chest at night. Then that first glass of water should wash it back down and calm queasiness.

Only your doctor can tell.

From The Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton
The next United States Commemorative scheduled for release is the four-cent Arizona Statehood issue to have first day sale at Phoenix, Arizona, February 14th.

This will be the first stamp the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will try the "bleeding" process of running colors together. The stamp will be printed in deep blue, green and red and was designed by James M. Chemi and James E. Ihms.

It will feature the Saguero Cactus (the state flower of Arizona) in the foreground, with the moon behind a cloud bank reflecting on the valley, thus creating a night scene in the desert.

The United Nations will issue a four and seven-cent set honoring Community Facilities on February 9th.

Club News
The Monroe Stamp Club will meet tonight, 497 Stokes Mill Road at 8 p.m. All are welcome.

The members of the Club take this opportunity to express their thanks and appreciation to the School Board for the use of the room at Stroudsburg High School for the exhibit. Also many thanks to Cramer Lumber Co. for the glass to cover the exhibits. The Club is deeply grateful to the gentleman who helped so much by judging the exhibits. This was no easy task as all the exhibits were fine and neatly arranged.

The Club Committee deserves credit for the way all the details of such an affair were handled, also to all those who in any way assisted, please accept the thanks of all the members of the Stamp Club.

The Club extends its congratulations to Richard Thorne for first place in the intermediate division with his entry of the Civil War. The stamps relative to the North and South were neatly divided and well arranged.

Congratulations also to John Possinger for first place in the Junior Division with his entry of Air Mail stamps arranged in the form of an airplane. Second place in the Juniors, went to Thomas Coco who had the "Credo" issues very nicely set up with data showing the source of the motto.

In the opinion of the Judges, as well as the Club Members, all the entrants deserve congratulations on their displays. May all you Stamp Collectors get started on your entries for next year's exhibit.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:

Comments On Editorial

Editor, Daily Record:
Your editorial headed "Civic Complacency" in the Daily Record January 11, so simply, yet beautifully written, is provocative, compassionate . . . and true.

Perhaps we too often complain, and too seldom compliment you and your "ink-brothers." Perhaps, neither you nor we always realize the terrific impact your written word makes on us, our emotions, actions and thinking.

Two years ago January 21st, a similar article in our "Record" shook me out of my complacency; for its closing sentence was: "That is why one must constantly ask himself, 'What is my contribution on this earth?'" Tho I was doing something for good—I wanted to do more.

Your article (among many excellent ones) will bring results. It will make some fine people realize they have been suffering from "civic complacency;" it will cause thinking persons to exchange complacency for active contribution; it will move others to seek ways of doing just a little bit more.

Our own present, deep concern is for the success of the 1962 Monroe County Heart Fund Campaign scheduled for February. It is a big job—for only a few; . . . but, many hands can make light work. We need extra "hands" . . . everyone has a heart.

Dear Abby

Can You Top This?

Dear Abby: The man I love is married to someone else—but not by choice. He has begged his wife for a divorce ever since he met me eight years ago, but she will not give in. She uses her children as her first line of defense. I would like to surprise him with a divorce as a gift, but don't know how to go about it. I have plenty of money for the lawyer, and am willing to pay whatever it costs to get this done in another state fast, without any public notices. In what state can I do this?

NO TIME TO WASTE

Dear No Time: The only state in which a woman can "surprise" a married man with a divorce is the state of delirium. If you want to give him a present, why not give him something his whole family can enjoy? His freedom—from you!

Dear Abby: I like a boy who I am sure likes me because all of his friends have told me so. We are both 15. He comes over to see me very often, but he never comes alone. He always brings anywhere from one to six boys with him. When he is with his boy friends, he usually ignores me. But once in a while if I get him alone, like last night when I asked him to come in the kitchen and help me get the ice trays loose so I could make lemonade, he was just marvelous. How can I tell him I would rather see him alone without hurting his feelings?

GOT A CRUSH

Dear Got: You can't. And if you could, I would advise against it. The boy needs his friends around him to give him courage. He's a bit shy. Don't try to get him alone or you'll be the one who's alone.

Dear Abby: My problem is lending clothes to my girl friends. I am 16 and have very nice clothes, all bought for me by my very generous parents. A few months ago a girl asked me if she could wear one of my sweaters. I let her wear it. When she didn't bring lending.

TOO EASY

Dear Too Easy: Since you appear to have rather poor judgment in sizing up your "customers," you'd be wise to lend nothing. It's frequently the nice people who must suffer because the not-so-nice ones abuse friendships.

How is the world treating you? Unload your problems on Abby, care of this paper.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

There is a certain fascination in my annual attempts to classify gifts to the Historical Society under certain general headings. Each gift seems to need a special classification all its own.

If it's difficult even to classify the names, imagine Mrs. Horace Walters' job in deciding where to put the actual objects. It's not easy to find a place for a mill stone and a Girl Scout pin, where both will be accessible, for instance.

Judging by my attic and the problems I have in storing just one family's collection of current history, the marvel is that she can not only put the treasures of a whole county's history where she can find them again, but in such a way that the museum rooms look almost lived in, and not too crowded or cluttered.

Somehow she always manages to classify the great wealth of historical information she possesses with the same mental orderliness, the same accessibility. When in the course of getting a story, I have a vague recollection that sometime somebody mentioned a connection between a certain building and a historical event — I can always yell for help, and Mrs. Walters can usually give me the exact date, other pertinent information and, whose speech I had heard it in the first place.

Even though my system of storing information or material things is much less orderly than a squirrel storing nuts, I still look forward to the annual Historical Society meeting for learning things I never knew before—things that put modern events in perspective.

If only, with the information, I could take Mrs. Walters with me like a human index and reference book, I'd get much more benefit out of it all.

Child In Hospital

Melinda Frederick is still a patient in Atlantic City Hospital where she has been for several months. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Frederick, of East Stroudsburg, report that friends and neighbors have been very thoughtful, sending her many messages and gifts to cheer the time.

Age Elevates Commonplace Things To Museum Status To Mirror Past Eras

Age lends enchantment to many of the commonplace things. Perhaps that mechanical monster the children got for Christmas may end up in either the scrap heap or a historical museum.

The Monroe County Historical Museum, listing its acquisitions for the past year, has things which were perhaps even more lightly regarded in their day, such as an antique cigar cutting board or an old kerosene oil can.

Mrs. Horace Walters, custodian, has compiled a careful list of relics and documentary treasures presented to the society and placed on display where they were viewed by 33 separate groups during the year. In addition to the local clubs, Scouts, and school groups which visited the museum there were individual visitors from as far away as Tokyo, Japan.

Family treasures, handed down through generations, make up the bulk of the gifts to the society, from war souvenirs to articles of clothing.

In Uniform

A daguerrotype of Capt. Charles D. Brodhead in Civil War Officers dress is supplemented by articles from his dress uniform and a framed photograph of him when he was Judge Brodhead, and all were presented by his granddaughter, Laura Brodhead (Evans) Flagler.

The World War I uniforms and other data about Lt. Harry Sydenham Van Eiten, M.D. were presented by his niece Mrs. Allen Zahorik, while the Civil War Service Record of William D. Walton, son of Dr. Sydenham Walton, was presented by his great granddaughter, Patricia (Walton) Doleiden. Other Civil War relics from Andrew J. Pipher and the Shaffer family were presented by Mrs. Lulu Shaffer Conway along with an antique wool hood and crocheted sweater.

A black beaver hat worn to President Abraham Lincoln's Inauguration on March 4, 1861 by William Burlingame, of Scranton was presented by Giles Burlingame, of East Stroudsburg who also presented his own metal drinking cup from World War I. Only the antique key remains

Stroud Union Parents Study Ways To Finance A College Education

Ways and means of financing a college education was a topic which brought out many members of the Stroud Union High School Parent Teachers Assn. on Monday night. Mrs. Elmer Veety and William Clark had made a detailed study of the problems and presented their findings at the meeting.

Mrs. Veety, recommending that parents and students study specific colleges in detail during the first term of their Junior year, used material she had collected from financial aid officers of many types of colleges. She explained the grants and scholarships available, the work-study plans, college and federal loan plans.

Clark reviewed a magazine article "You Can Afford College" by W. Bradford Craig. Princeton's financial aid officer, stressing the five main ways to finance a college education by which parents of modest incomes can send their children to college. Making aid available are corporations, government, clubs and organizations, and the colleges themselves.

More Than You Know

He read a list of local grants or scholarships available on a competitive basis for those who need financial help, whose length surprised many of the parents. Discussion and a social period followed.

Mrs. Andrew Keiser, president, announced that the annual seventh and eighth grade party will be held in the school gym on March 23 at 7:30 with Mrs. William Wells and Mrs. Joseph Yutz as co-chairmen.

Founder's Day will be held at the Arlington Heights Elementary School on Tuesday, Feb. 6, at 8 p.m. Dr. John Cartwright, superintendent of the Allentown School District, and former principal at Stroudsburg High School, will be the speaker.

Questionnaires are being sent to all PTA meetings asking their suggestions before plans are made for summer enrichment courses for students or the annual open house are made. Replies are to be returned promptly to Mrs. James Kitson.

Obert-Schaffer Wedding At Hemlock Grove Church

Greentown — In a holiday wedding on December 26 at seven o'clock in the evening, Miss Shirley Helen Schaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schaffer, Greentown, became the bride of Gerald Obert, son of Arthur Obert, Greentown, and Mrs. Emanuel Keiper, Tobyhanna.

Rev. Harry C. Roof, retired Methodist pastor, performed the ceremony at Hemlock Grove Methodist Church before the altar which was trimmed with native greens.

Attendants were the brother and sister-in-law of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schaffer.

The bride chose a street-length dress of Copenhagen blue with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of white and pink orchids. Mrs. Schaffer also wore Copenhagen blue and her corsage was of white pompons.

Friends and relatives of the couple attended the service and the reception which followed at the home of the attendants.

The bride attended Southern Wayne Joint School, Newfoundland, as did the bridegroom. He also served a tour of duty with the U. S. Army, both in this country and Germany.

The bridegroom is employed at The Inn, Buck Hill Falls. The couple will make their home in Greentown while their new home is being built.

Skits Bring Messages To WSCS Meeting

Three skits, directed by Jane Gilbert, secretary of spiritual life, were presented at the meeting of the Arlington Heights Chapel Women's Society of Christian Service.

The first emphasized giving to God first, and featured Anna Fritz, Nancy Farry and Ruth Hontz; the second was on social pressure and alcoholic drinking, by Henrietta George and Olive Merring; and the third on obscene literature was presented by Vivian Butz, Agnes Decker and Verna Ace.

Shut-ins of the church were remembered with filled Christmas stockings Anna Fritz reported. Members were reminded of the Ingathering to be held March 28 at the Fritz Methodist Church, Bethlehem. Vivian Butz and Henrietta George reported on items needed.

The president was authorized to vote approval for an increase in dues at the next meeting of the United Council of Churchwomen. Jane Gilbert announced that a traveling stockpile will be passed through the congregation with proceeds going to Methodist Hospital.

Preparing for next Christmas the group is joining with the Swiftwater WSCS to make Christmas stockings for the Monroe County Home.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Ruth Hontz when each member will bring a Valentine for exchange.

"The Friendly One"
A.B. Wyckoff
STROUDSBURG, PA.

Saturday was the deadline for entries in our 25th Annual Wyckoff Art Show opening today, and I came in for several hours to assist Arthur Widmer and Walter Wyckoff in registering the paintings. It was interesting, giving me both a preview of some of the work you will see when you visit our Art Store today, and the opportunity to chat with many of my artist friends, such as Sterling Strauser, Phyllis Rubin and Joe DeThomas whom I see all too infrequently but always find interesting.

Strauser's entries in this year's show include a portrait of his good friend, his distinguished fellow artist "Papa" Burluk, who posed during a recent visit with the Strausers at their East Stroudsburg home. Both Sterling and I had received letters within the past week from our mutual friend, Victor Joseph Gatto, whose primitives were included in a recent show at the Pocono Art Center at East Stroudsburg's Old Stone House, but who is not, unfortunately, represented in our Wyckoff show. Joe is now in Texas, and writes long, comprehensive, very colorful letters of the bull fights which will, undoubtedly, be the subject of future Gatto paintings.

Dorothy Strauser accompanied her husband to the store Saturday, but did not enter any of her own work this year. This is regrettable, for she is a very gifted woman in several media. I personally cannot decide whether she excels at water color or oil, or whether she tells her best stories in the colorful rugs that make such stunning wall hangings. Whichever you prefer, you who know the Strausers will agree that they are a marvelously talented pair, and a very pleasant couple to know.

Another fine bonus for working on my day off, was seeing the Eldredges once again. Allan, whose marines are terrific, and Lee, are among my favorite people, and one of the most interesting of the moderns in our show this year bears Lee's signature. It is small, and represents a water fall cascading over rocks and moss that reflect jewel tones. "I did it just for fun one day when I was impressed with the coloring magnified by the water," she told me, "and do you know, I've sold several—they're just fun things, however." Be that as it may, this one (and probably the others) would be a delightful way to add a dash of color to a room. I cannot imagine anyone, however conservative, who could not be weaned to a taste for the contemporary when it is served in such small, tasty doses.

Allan, who paints the wettest, deepest, rollingest water I've ever seen, was much interested in the work of Robert Doney, the Pen Argyl artist whose two entries are widely contrasting. One, a portrait of two children, is delicately done in pastel . . . the other, a study of Times Square at night, is achieved with striking dash and abandon. It is rare, Allan feels, that one finds the same person doing two such varied types of work with uniform skill.

Another of Saturday afternoon's delights was meeting Matilda Grech, the young mother of two, whose entries last year were so unanimously well received, and who has since won considerable critical acclaim as "a comer" who bears watching. Round of face, bright-eyed and smiling, brunette Mrs. Grech is somewhere in her mid-twenties, I would guess. She arrived with tiny smudges of paint near her hairline and a wet canvas upon which she'd been working all morning. I'm not sure about its title, but it is a still life with a tall bottle, the statue of a horse, and a few apples, against a drapery. The colors are vibrant, as they are in her previous entry, "Reflections." The latter shows a silver coffee pot against a crimson drapery, and, if anything, it is lovelier in half light than full light, being rich with its own luminosity and dimension.

I have other memories of Saturday too, and they are deeply satisfying . . . but why don't you visit the show and select your favorite artists and paintings? This is a show of which Wyckoff's can be proud and with which you will be thrilled. But oh, how I pity the judges!

Probe Cave For Missing Boys

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Firemen probed a cave hole yesterday in their search for two boys reported missing.

Larry Husted, 10, of nearby West Decatur, and Wesley Lowe, 13, of West Decatur R.D., failed to return home after going on a hike Sunday.

Volunteer firemen searched vainly through the night, then centered their attention on the cave hole after an unidentified boy told them the missing youths had planned to enter the hole.

A note found pinned to a tree outside the hole said, "Come on in; we're in the big hole."

The slanted hole, located about 15 miles south of Clearfield, leads downward some 20 feet into two passageways—one blocked by a cave-in of recent origin, firemen said, and the other dropping into a pool of water.

Using a rubber raft, firemen probed the pool but found no sign of the boys.

Methodist Group Backs JFK Policy

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP)—A national group of Methodist women supports President Kennedy's request for power to cut tariffs across-the-board.

The national women's division of the Methodist Christian Service, avowedly represent 1,800,000 members, have adopted a resolution calling on Congress to give the President authority to liberalize the foreign trade program.

The resolution also called for a law which would give the president permission to ease the burden of various industries who must face stiffer competition from increased imports.

The women also supported the "continued presence" of the United Nations and the purchase of up to $100 million of United Nations bonds.

They favored the creation of a federal department of urban affairs and housing.

1943 Bomb Wrecks Factory

MILAN, Italy (AP)— Experts determined yesterday that an explosion which wrecked a factory here Dec. 26 was caused by a 1,000-pound bomb dropped by a U.S. bomber in 1943.

The factory was built in 1937 and the bomb remained undiscovered.

The explosion occurred when the factory was deserted. There was no loss of life.

Depot's '128th' Compiled Proud Record In 2 Weeks

THE MEN of the 128th Signal Company, at the U. S. Army Signal Corps depot, Tobyhanna, have compiled a proud record during the past few weeks, twice the troops have been called upon to help fill an emergency need for Blood, and twice the 128th has answered the call.

Near the first of the new year, a Mt. Pocono man needed a large amount of blood before he could undergo a serious operation in a Baltimore, Md., hospital. In a matter of minutes, the 128th produced 30 men who were willing to donate a pint each in order to help him.

One evening, only a few days ago, a call came from Scranton State Hospital saying that an infant needed a certain amount of blood in a hurry. The word was spread quickly throughout the troop area, and six men from the 128th dropped whatever they had been doing and rushed into Scranton.

These men neither asked nor received any reward for their praise-worthy actions, nor were they forced to contribute. Their blood was given strictly on a voluntary basis, out of a strong sense of duty toward the community in which they now live.

The 128th, to be sure, isn't the only civic-minded unit at Tobyhanna. During a blood drive conducted Jan. 9 and 10 under the auspices of the American Red Cross, the efforts of all units were truly laudable.

Over 700 pints of blood were collected, and the troops contributed only slightly less than half that figure, attaining almost 50 per cent participation. Here again the 128th held the lead, by a wide margin. Altogether, 90 per cent of the men who compose the 128th have volunteered to donate blood in the past three weeks.

No better example could possibly be found to illustrate just how great an asset the soldier can be to the community in which he serves.

Paper Hints Molotov Still Being Probed

VIENNA, Austria (AP)— The Austrian Communist party newspaper hinted yesterday V. M. Molotov still is under investigation in Moscow but eventually will return to his atoms-for-peace agency post in Vienna.

The newspaper Volksstimme, in a dispatch from Moscow by its former editor, Erwin Zucker-Schilling, put it this way: "Investigation of the personal responsibility of Molotov (in some of Stalin's crimes) and of other former party leaders is carried out in a party probe which, as one can assume, takes considerable time and has not yet been concluded."

Some here took this to mean Molotov must remain in Moscow until completion of the investigation.

The announcement of a Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman a week ago that Molotov was returning to Vienna also could mean that the old Bolshevik had been cleared by investigators, but that this clearance has not yet been formally approved.

The spokesman apparently jumped the gun, since he hedged in later announcements and finally met inquiries icily with: "How many times are you going to call about this matter? We have nothing to add."

Volksstimme's Moscow dispatch said, "It seems that Molotov will keep his function" with the International Atomic Energy Agency, where he has been permanent Soviet delegate for more than a year.

Author Guilty Of Espionage

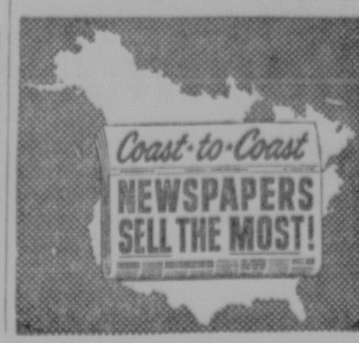

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Israel Beer, author and internationally known military commentator, was sentenced by a district court here yesterday to 10 years imprisonment for espionage.

Beer, who during his trial dismissed his lawyer and conducted his own defense, said he would appeal.

The three-judge court had found Beer guilty of collecting secret security information for an agent of a foreign state, the name of which was not disclosed at any of the few open court sessions. The prosecution's charge referred to alleged espionage from April 1956 until March 1961, when Beer was arrested. He was found guilty on three counts, acquitted on three others.

The court said it accepted

Beer's claim that he had not acted for financial, but for ideological reasons, that he had not intended to harm the security of Israel and that he even believed he would be able to do good through his contacts with foreign agents. But the court added that the judges, nevertheless, strongly opposed his one-man campaign and said it was clearly against the declared policy of the state.

BLUE CROSS

QUESTION OF THE WEEK ...

Q. Will $500 see me through hospital and doctor costs for an emergency operation?

A. Nobody can answer that, but at such a moment, you shouldn't have to think about it... and with comprehensive Blue Cross and Blue Shield, you don't have to, because the CARE is there, not just limited dollars. That's the big difference between Blue Cross and Blue Shield and other types of coverage... and isn't that what health PROTECTION really means? Don't settle for less.

Late Foul Shot By Steele Decides It

SWIFTWATER — Jim Steele dropped in a foul shot with seven seconds remaining in the overtime period Tuesday, to give East Stroudsburg High a 51-48 victory over Pocono Mountain Jointure.

Actually Steele's foul shot wasn't the last score of the game but it was the one that counted.

Steele connected on the first half of a one and one attempt, giving the Cavaliers a 49-48 lead. But the junior guard missed the second shot and the two teams battled for the rebound. Just before the game ended, the Cavaliers' Glenn Kane was fouled but time expired before he could try the fouls. Kane went to the line about three minutes later, after the free throw area was cleared of happy Cavalier fans and made both shots.

The ending was stunning for the Pocono supporters in the crowd of almost 700, the largest Tuesday night gathering in the new school.

Pocono had the game under control through all but the final minutes of the fourth period and the overtime segment.

The Cardinals, who suffered their third loss in ten games, scored the first 11 points of the game and in the second period had a 17 point lead. At the end of the third period, the Cards still had what appeared to be a safe lead 42-36.

But in the fourth period, Pocono managed only four points and they came within a space of 45 seconds, as Ralph Dunlap scored back to back lay-ups.

Dunlap scored his final bucket with 6:44 left in the game and it gave Pocono a 10-point spread 46-36.

Quick Cut
Within 15 seconds after Dunlap's basket, East Stroudsburg had trimmed the lead to five points.

It looked as if the Cards were heading for another bucket, when A. J. Bittner stole a Cavalier pass at mid-court and dribbled in for a shot. But Bittner blew the unguarded attempt and Jack Van Horn rebounded and started up court.

Bittner chased Van Horn for about 40 feet and managed to bat the ball away. Officials called a foul on Bittner for bumping into Van Horn. Bittner complained about the call and was charged with a technical foul.

Van Horn made both parts of his one-and-one and scored the technical try. The technical also gave the Cavaliers the ball at mid-court and George Hack scored on a jump shot to make it 46-41, only 15 seconds after Pocono had led 46-34 and its way to a 12-point lead.

Ties Game
Van Horn made good on two short jump shots and Kane tied the game at 46-41 with 2:18 left, when he bagged a foul shot.

Both clubs tried for a sure shot in the final minutes but East Stroudsburg couldn't get the ball through the Pocono zone and the Cards' bid to win the game on a lay-up by Bittner was halted when Van Horn blocked the shot.

John's brother Norb had a chance to win the game with 1:01 left, when he was fouled by Don Westcott. Norb scored on the play but the officials ruled that he was fouled before he got the shot off. Ryan missed the foul shot and in the last minute, neither team managed a shot.

First Lead
Steele gave the Cavaliers their first lead of the game with 2:06 left in the overtime, by converting two foul shots. After Bittner missed a one-and-one situation Peter Ask made good a driving lay-up to tie the count with 1:56 left. That's the way it stood until Steele went to the line for the winning tosses.

Van Horn was the high point man of the game with 18. Steele had 10 and Kane nine.

Dunlap not only led Pocono in scoring with 13 points but his ball handling and defense led to the early Pocono spurt. Norb Ryan had 12 points and John field eight.

Pocono made three more field goals 20-17 than the Cavaliers but from the foul line the Cavaliers connected on 17 of 27, while the Cards collected only eight of 17 chances.

It was the fourth win in eight games for the Cavaliers, who meet Pen Argyl Friday and then play a return game with Pocono Tuesday night.

Konkrete Kids Top S.U. 53-41 In League Contest

NORTHAMPTON held Warren Loney to only two points Tuesday night in posting a 53-41 Lehigh Valley win over Stroud Union at Stroudsburg.

Loney, the third leading scorer in the league with a 21 point average, managed only two foul shots before fouling out with seven minutes remaining.

It was the fourth league loss for the Mounties, who are looking for their first loop victory. Over-all, Stroud Union has a 2-7 record.

Slow Third
Stroud Union was in the game most of the way but a third period let-down spoiled the Mounties' chances. In that frame, Northampton scored 12 points and Stroud Union collected only six. But despite the light third period, Stroud Union trailed only four, 28-24 mid-way through the period.

The Konkrete Kids really began to open the margin after Loney fouled out and Dave Pierson followed with four minutes left.

Mike Lisetski of Northampton was the high scorer in the game with 16 points. Lisetski, Stroud Union scored on seven of 14.

Double Edge
Northampton had the edge in both field goals and free throws. From the field the Kids hit 20 shots to Stroud Union's 17. And at the foul line, Northampton connected on 13 of

Tax Returns Show Usual Miscues

THE FLOW of Federal income Tax Returns increased during the past week, and will continue to increase until the middle of February. This is the time when wage earners who have their W-2 Withholding Statements from their employers get busy and file in anticipation of early refunds.

Uncle Sam is happy to see taxpayers file early, but in their haste, many people slip up in completing their forms. Highest on the list of slip-ups is failure to attach W-2's to the return. Second on the list is the failure to sign the return.

W-2's and the Tax form go together to make up a return. A return is not legal unless it has your signature; husband's and wife's, if filing jointly.

Director R. P. Brownell urges Scranton District taxpayers to check and double-check their returns before sending them to his office. Erroneous and incomplete returns can cost you, as well as the Government, time and money.

Seek To Close Spanish Prisons

MADRID, Spain (AP) — While some countries are struggling with a crime problem, the Spanish director-general of prisons reported Tuesday he has a prison problem of another kind.

He asked and obtained permission from the Ministry of Justice to close more than a dozen prisons in various parts of Spain. The reason—no prisoners.

A spokesman said Spain still has crime but it also has more prison space than is needed.
